

MISS ANTHONY'S LIFE WORK ENDS

Noted Woman Suffragist Advocate Is Dead After A Long Struggle With Disease.

DEATH DUE TO HEART FAILURE

Had Overcome An Attack Of Double Pneumonia, But Weakness Of Vital Organs Caused Her Demise This Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rochester, N. Y., March 13.—Miss Susan B. Anthony is dead. The long and eventful life of the noted suffragist closed at 12:40 o'clock Tuesday morning. The end was peaceful. She had been unconscious practically for twenty-four hours and her death had been momentarily expected since Sunday night. Only her wonderful vitality kept her alive.
Mrs. M. S. Ricker, her attending physician, said Miss Anthony died of heart failure induced by double pneumonia. She has had serious valvular heart trouble for the last six or seven years. Her lungs were practically clear and the pneumonia had yielded to treatment, but the weakness of her heart prevented her recovery.
Heart Action Is Weak.
Miss Anthony was taken ill while on her way home from the national suffrage convention in Baltimore, which was her last appearance in public. She stopped in New York, where a banquet was to be given Feb. 20 in honor of her eighty-sixth birthday, but had an attack of neuralgia on the 18th and hastened home. Pneumonia developed after her arrival here and on March 6 both lungs became affected. Miss Anthony was greatly beloved in this city, which had been her home since 1845. She lived to see a decade change in sentiment from the time, in the winter of 1861, when she was hissed and hooted when she attempted to give a lecture on abolition in Corinthian hall. The lecture tour, which started in Buffalo, was a series of riots, but Miss Anthony never flinched. The insults heaped upon her culminated in Syracuse, where she was egged and burned in effigy.

Gives Wealth for Freedom.
Feeling that her life could not long continue, Miss Anthony evidently was disturbed by desire to express some wish with regard to her will, and on Wednesday last she said to her sister: "Write to Anna Shaw immediately, and tell her I desire that every cent I leave when I pass out of this life shall be given to the fund which Miss Thomas and Miss Garrett are raising for the cause. I have given my life and all I am to it and now I want my last act to be to give it all I have—the last cent. Tell Anna Shaw to see that this is done."
In compliance with Miss Anthony's request, Miss Mary Anthony wrote immediately and within an hour after the letter was sent Miss Shaw unexpectedly arrived at Miss Anthony's home. On the following day when she was permitted to see Miss Anthony, the latter repeated her request, telling with evident emotion her great love and longing for the success of the great cause that underlies all reforms, the greatest boon of all—freedom.
Leaves Legacy of Freedom.
"On Sunday," Rev. Anna Shaw said, "about two hours before she became unconscious, I talked with Miss Anthony and she said: 'To think I have had more than sixty years of hard struggle for a little liberty and then to die without it seems so cruel.'"
"I replied: 'Your legacy will be freedom for all womankind after you are gone. Your splendid struggle has changed life for women everywhere.'"
"She replied: 'If it has I have lived to some purpose, and she begged me to promise that I and her niece, Miss Lucy Anthony, would stand together until the end of our lives and work faithfully for the cause, as she and her sister Mary had.'"
"Miss Anthony said of all workers: 'Their faces pass before me one by one. I cannot even call their names, but they are a host of loyal, splendid women and I love them every one. How good everybody has been to me. I wonder if we shall know in the hereafter. If we do I shall be with you when you win Oregon and in every campaign for victory.'"
"Then she added with a smile: 'Perhaps I can do more over yonder than I did here.' Her work was her one thought."

Censure Management of Annapolis Academy for Excessive Discipline.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 13.—The subcommittee named by the house committee on naval affairs to investigate hazing at Annapolis made its report today to the whole committee. Rear Admiral Brownson is censured in the report for exacting a pledge from the midshipmen not to engage in hazing and for allowing the boys to think the pledge was personal to him and became a superstition. Graduate did not hold after Rear Admiral Sands punishment for hazing is recommended by the subcommittee, which is firmly of the opinion the present system of expelling all midshipmen found guilty of hazing is vicious.

HOUSE COMMITTEE FOR INVESTIGATION

Decides to Report Favorably on Motion to Probe Railways and Monopolies.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 13.—The house committee on interstate commerce today decided to make a favorable report on the Townsend joint resolution providing for the appropriation of fifty thousand dollars to enable the interstate commerce commission to investigate the railways and monopolies under the Tillman-Gillespie resolution. The Townsend resolution also corrects the other defects pointed out by the President.

Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, will not attend the banquet of the Wisconsin State Bar association in honor of United States Judge J. G. Jenkins.

Traveling Salesman for Milwaukee House Suicides Near Grand Haven, Michigan.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Grand Haven, Mich., March 13.—R. S. Vanduzee, a traveling salesman for a Milwaukee liquor house, threw himself from the deck of the steamer Naami last night as the steamer was leaving this harbor. He leaves a widow and two children in Menominee. His body has not been recovered.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

The Indiana democratic state committee has selected June 7 for the date of the state convention at Indianapolis.
Governor Higgins of New York granted the requisition of the governor of West Virginia for the extradition of C. A. Henderson of New York city to answer the charge of selling stock under false pretenses. It is alleged that he was instrumental in the sale of stock to the value of $100,000 of the International Mercantile company, which subsequently became insolvent.
Governor Magoon of the Panama canal zone expects to leave Washington for the isthmus March 17.
Joseph Kolaski, a young Slav, was shot and killed at Monongahela, Pa., by Jasper Freeman, watchman at the general store of the Ellsworth Coal and Coke company when detected in the act of robbing the store.
Joachim, the Brazilian ambassador to this country, has been appointed to head the American delegation of Brazil to the Pan-American congress in Rio Janeiro next summer.

LOCAL ATTORNEYS ARE THE BIG GUNS

A. A. Jackson Presides, and John M. Whitehead and J. B. Cassoday Speak at Bar Meeting.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., March 13.—Distinguished lawyers and jurists to a total of several scores have gathered in Milwaukee for the annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Bar association. The state conventions of circuit and county judges and district attorneys has helped to swell the attendance. The bar association formally opened its meeting this evening with the president, A. A. Jackson of Janesville, in the chair. Other persons of note who are on the program for addresses are Chief Justice John B. Cassoday, State Senator John M. Whitehead of Janesville and James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago.

EXHIBIT PUP GIVEN ALICE AT WEDDING

Is $1,500 Bull Terrier—Morgan's and Lawson's Valuable Canines Also Shown.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Buffalo, N. Y., March 13.—City Convention Hall rang today with the barks of hundreds of high-bred canines, which were placed on exhibition there at the annual bench show of the Buffalo Kennel club. The record of entries from Buffalo was broken, and there were many exhibits from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Cleveland and Chicago, as well as from Canada. Boston bulls and terriers of all sorts are well represented and the big dogs, including St. Bernards, Great Danes, etc., are likewise much in evidence. Thomas W. Lawson's bulls, J. Pierpont Morgan's collies and the Boston terrier, "Fashion," bought for $1,500 as a wedding present for Miss Alice Roosevelt, are among the notable exhibits. The judging began as soon as the exhibition there at the annual bench show thinned until Friday night.

IS FRANCIS JOSEPH TO ABDICATE NOW?

Status of Affairs in Austria-Hungary May Result in Resignation of Aged Ruler.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Paris, March 13.—Leaders of the Hungarian colony in Paris are of the opinion that Emperor Francis Joseph will abdicate the throne before long. They express the belief that the final struggle between Austria and Hungary is at last about to break forth, and that it will be impossible longer to patch up even a temporary settlement between the two nations. The Hungarian leaders have long had their plans prepared for the crisis when it arrives, and no time will be lost in forming a provisional government and taking over the control of Hungary.
It is known that the venerable emperor was anxious to quit the throne some four or five years ago, and only reconsidered his decision at the earnest entreaties of his family and ministers. If, however, the present situation is not by some compromise smoothed over, Francis Joseph will quit his throne and his country. Rumors have been current this week that agents of the Austrian emperor have recently been visiting Paris with a view to obtaining suitable accommodation for him should it become necessary for him to carry his decision to resign his crown into effect.

DECISION OF COURT IS MISINTERPRETED

Brokers Yesterday Bought Traction Stock Which Broke on Change Today.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, March 13.—The price of Chicago Union Traction common stock broke on the stock exchange today from 10 to 7 1/2. Heavy losses were sustained by a number of local brokers, who acted on the first information given out regarding the decision of the supreme court yesterday. It was generally construed as being favorable to the street car companies and against the city, and the first brokers who received the information proceeded to buy stocks. The mistake was not realized until the market had closed.
A cablegram received at Wilmington, Del., announced a fatal accident to Leonard Bright Roth, aged 26 years, at Rochdale, England. He was the fiancé of Miss Pauline W. # OUTLAWS KILL THE OFFICERS

Deputy Marshal And Two Members Of His Posse Are Shot From An Ambush.

MAY CALL FOR FEDERAL TROOPS

Fear That An Indian Outbreak Will Result And Full Bloods Join With The Murderers In The Conflict.

[Special to The Gazette.]
Vinita, Ind. T., March 13.—Following the killing of three members of a United States marshal's posse by the Wickliffe band of Cherokee Indian outlaws in the Spavinaw hills, nine miles northeast of Kansas, Ind. T., Sunday afternoon, a bloody battle is expected to occur at any moment.
A heavily armed posse is on the trail of the Indians, who have been reinforced by a large number of other full-bloods, and when the two forces clash a desperate conflict is certain to take place.
The men killed were led into a trap, and though they fought the Indians with great desperation Deputy Marshal I. L. Gilstrap of Vinita, Otis Tuttle, posse man of Vinita, and Dick Terry, posseman of Tahlequah, were killed.
Outlaws Are Besieged.
After the battle the outlaws were besieged in the house of their uncle, Jim Wickliffe, at the scene of the crime, thirty-one miles from Vinita. There is no telephone or telegraphic communication with the battleground, and no news had been received from a large party of deputies who went to the Spavinaw hills to capture or kill the outlaws.
The Wickliffes killed Deputy Marshal Vier about a year and a half ago, and the officers have been on their trail ever since. A posse of six officers, who were on the way to arrest the gang, were fired upon from ambush by the Indians, who shot and killed three of their pursuers and escaped unhurt.
Plezz Mann, a posseman who survived the attack of the outlaws, walked twenty-eight miles to Tahlequah and told the story of the battle, which was telegraphed to United States Marshal Darrough of this place at 2:35 Monday morning.
Thirty-five deputy marshals were immediately sworn in and dispatched to the scene of the battle, and authority has been granted Marshal Darrough by the department of justice in Washington to increase the number to 100. Marshal Darrough announces that he will employ this many men if necessary to round up the desperadoes.
Cherokees Take Warpath.
It is reported that the full blood Cherokee Indians in the vicinity of the battleground, commonly known as the Night Hawks, are joining the Wickliffes, and the authorities fear that they will hide themselves in the rough country and a desperate battle ensue before the outlaws are captured.

The Wickliffes are members of the Night Hawk band of Indians, which has given the United States officers so much trouble in the matter of making allotments, and it is said that many of these Night Hawks sympathize with them.
The home of the Wickliffes is in the center of the Night Hawk settlement, where the battle occurred. Many of the Indians have been sheltering the outlaws during their months of scouting, and the officers have arrested many of the Indians for giving such protection to the Wickliffes.
It is feared here that all the full bloods in that vicinity, which number several hundred, may join the Wickliffes, and that it may be necessary to call out the United States troops. The officers here, however, believe they will be able to cope with the situation successfully.
Deputy Gilstrap was a fearless officer. He was appointed to succeed J. H. Wier, who was killed by the Wickliffes.
Open Fire From Building.
Marshal Darrough has asked the department of justice to authorize him to offer $1,000 for the capture of the outlaws. Only meager details of the fight have been received as yet. The battle occurred far from the railroad, and it is hard to get tidings from there.
Deputy Gilstrap, with Otis Tuttle, Dick Terry, Thomas Wafford and Andy Dick, possemen, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock rode up to the home of Jim Wickliffe, uncle of the Wickliffe boys, and were intending to make a search of the place, when the outlaws, concealed in the house, opened fire on them.
At the first shot Gilstrap, Tuttle and Terry were killed, and at the next volley all of the horses were killed, besides two bloodhounds. The survivors, but the fire from the outlaws was so sharp that they soon sought shelter behind trees and stones.
The three survivors decided to send Plezz Mann to Tahlequah for assistance, while the other two men would shadow the house and, if possible, prevent the escape of the Wickliffes.

WILL BE LAST OF ROPING CONTESTS

Cowboys to Compete This Week in Oklahoma—Only Place Where Such Sport Is Allowed.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Oklahoma City, Okla., March 13.—Oklahoma City is today the mecca for cattlemen from all over the Southwest. The occasion is the annual convention of the Oklahoma Live Stock association and the Midland Valley Livestock show, for both of which events preparations have been in progress since last November. The formal opening of this double event took place today and the gathering will continue till the end of the week.
The feature of the gathering that is of most interest to the general public is the roping contest for championship honors. It is believed that this will be the last opportunity the country will have to witness one of these contests as Oklahoma is the only place where it is now permitted and with the coming statehood the sport will probably be prohibited by law here. Expert cowboys from the Panhandle country and other sections have been practicing for the contests for months. For the championship the contestants will include Ellison Carroll of Mangum, Clay McConnell of Midland, Texas, and Tom Velst of Carlsbad. Carroll at the present time holds the championship. He won the honors at San Antonio last year. At this exhibition Carroll roped twenty-eight steers in eighteen minutes and fifty-two seconds. He hopes to beat his own record here this week.

Rev. Father Mulhane of Ohio pleased a large audience at St. Mary's hall last evening with his patriotic lecture on "The Humor and Pathos of War." The subject matter was largely concerned with the Rebellion of the '60's and a number of the local Grand Army veterans attended the entertainment on invitation of Rev. Father Mulhane, and expressed themselves as delighted with the speaker and his manner of presenting his facts. The lecture was one of a course of entertainments that are being given under St. Mary's church auspices.

Wonderful Productiveness of the Fertile Soil of Neuces County Described.

This cold snap on the Pacific coast will demonstrate what Texas can do towards supplying the country with fruits and vegetables that have been killed by the unusual March blizzard. Texas can do this and more if the government reports are to be believed. It is one of the richest, most fertile, and at the present time most sparsely settled state in the Union. It offers facilities for so many diversified forms of farming that it is a bonanza for the small truck grower and for the big rancher who deals in the millions of bushels where his neighbor deals in hundreds. Excursions have been run to Texas continually and in all probability this on the 20th will be the last
at the cheap rate, as the railroads have made no arrangement for a continuance of the special rate. Fish, Lee and Fish of Evansville will conduct another party to this far famed country on the above date.

The price for this round trip will be $30.15 and is cheaper than can be expected later. A card dropped to the firm at Evansville will bring prompt attention and particulars.

Neuces County, in which the land offered for sale by Fish, Lee and Fish has a population of 11,500, and a tax rate of eight-two cents per hundred dollars. It is traversed by the famous "Sav" line and on this road are the three principal towns of the county, Corpus Christi, Alice and Driscoll. It is near Alice where the Evansville firm has its land.

Neuces county is the largest of the southwestern coast counties, having an area of 2,345 square miles. The county has an extensive coast line bordered on the north by the Neuces Bay and river, on the south by the Laguna Madre and the Gulf of Mexico.
Being surrounded by water on three sides, the climate is delightful. The summer temperature is rarely above 95 degrees, and only once in twelve years has the mercury stood as low as 20 degrees. Some winters have passed without freezing, although a slight frost is the rule in most winters. The days are bordered by blue from thirty to fifty feet high, and the lands of the county are free from swamps and stagnant pools. The air is dry and this section has long been noted as a natural sanitarium for all kinds of throat and nervous affections.

Farming Industry.
The soil is both sandy and black loam, surface being mostly level. The county is well adapted to stock raising, general farming, truck gardening and the culture of the tropical fruits.
Truck growing is rapidly becoming the leading occupation. The truck gardeners are able to reach interior and northern markets ahead of other sections, not excepting Florida and California. Grapes ripen in June, melons and cantaloupes are marketed in the latter part of May,
while in California grapes do not ripen until August. Three vegetable crops are made annually—in the fall, winter and spring—bringing fancy prices. As much as $400 has been realized from a single acre of cabbage. Unless a farmer makes $100 an acre from his cabbage crop, if the yield has been fair, he considers himself in hard luck. Twelve years ago Neuces county was largely devoted to the cattle industry, but now the entire district is dotted with truck farms, and there is a constant influx of farmers, until a large portion of the county is a big truck garden.

The Irrigation.
Irrigation in the county is confined to watering as is done from a pipe line which supplies Corpus Christi with water, or from artesian wells and storage tanks. The project of damming the Neuces River is being seriously considered, and it carried out will divide the salt water from the fresh and furnish a permanent body of water, averaging from about three to four miles wide, and ten to twelve miles long, and six to ten feet deep.
After a crop of cabbage is marketed cotton is frequently planted on the same field, and many of the farmers also plant tomatoes, cucumbers, can-toupes, watermelons, beans, potatoes and other vegetables.

Diversification.
Those who practice diversification of crops on a medium scale, have made as much as $500 on a single acre of land within a year time.
Unimproved lands sell from seven to fifteen dollars per acre.
Within the past few years more than one hundred artesian wells have been

WHAT IS CATARRH?

People's Drug Store Guarantee a Cure
By Hyomei or Will Refund the Money.

Until very recent years it was thought that catarrh was a disease of the blood, but now modern science has proved that catarrh is a germ disease, and can be cured only by a treatment that will kill the germ and heal the mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

Therefore, when you have catarrh,
you can readily see that if you want to cure it, you should use Hyomei, which medicates the air you breathe, thus killing the catarrhal germs, and healing the smarting and raw membrane of the passages through the nose and throat.

The complete "Hyomei" outfit, consisting of an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei, and a medicated ropper, costs only $1, while extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

People's Drug Co. have sold a great many Hyomei outfits, and the more they sell, the more convinced they are that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing it to refund the money
if Hyomei does not cure.

sunk in the country, and many more are now being bored. These wells have insured fine crops beyond any possibility of failure, and Neuces county has now attracted the attention of the entire North and Northwest, and is rapidly settling up.

Excellent Soil.
Along the line of the S. A. & A. P.
Ry. from Matlis, in San Patricio county, to Alice and Falfurrias (the latter towns being the southern terminus of the S. A. & A. P. Ry.), no finer soil can be found anywhere in the world. Until recent date the artesian water belt was not known to have covered this entire section, but it is now proved that it can be found as near Matlis station, and other people will sink additional wells.

Schools and Churches.
The scholastic population of the county is about 2,500. There are twenty-two school districts. Corpus Christi and Alice maintain independent school districts. Besides the public schools, the Catholics have a large denominational school at Corpus Christi. Nearly all of the religious denominations are represented, and most of them have fine church buildings in Corpus Christi and Alice.

Alice.
Alice is in the very heart of the stock raising country and is the greatest primary stock shipping point in the world. The S. A. & A. P. Ry.
originates more stock on its line than any other railroad in the country, and Alice is its greatest stock raising point. Alice is situated at the junction of the S. A. & A. P. and Texas and Mexican railways, 148 miles south of San Antonio, and 43 miles west of Corpus Christi. The land around Alice is rich, dark, sandy loam, growing the crops of cotton, corn, forage and vegetables of all kinds. In normal years the rainfall is insufficient for success in truck farming, but this difficulty has been overcome by the discovery that the entire country is underlain with artesian water in unlimited quantities and suitable for irrigation, which will completely revolutionize the industry of the country and make it one of the best vegetable producing sections in the South. There have been thousands of acres of land tributary to Alice recently sold to northern capitalist and homeseekers, all of which will make Alice one of the most important towns on the S. A.
& A. P. Ry.

A card dropped to Fish,
Lee and Fish at Evansville will bring additional knowledge of this wonderful country and particulars of the coming excursion on the 20th.

SADIE KENYON WAS MARRIED

TO ALBERT BIETZ YESTERDAY

Ceremony Was Performed at Four O'clock in the Afternoon by Justice Reeder.

After making application for a marriage license yesterday afternoon Albert Bietz of Milwaukee and Sadie Kenyon of this city secured from Judge Bieltz a special permit to wed at once. They then repaired to Justice Reeder's office and on finding him out of the city sent a hurry call for Justice Reeder. The latter tied the nuptial knot at four o'clock. The bride's mother, Mrs. Martyn, was one of the witnesses. The groom is a driver in Milwaukee.

TARIFF BILL IS NOT DEAD AS YET

PHILIPPINE MEASURE COULD BE

CALLED UP AT ANY TIME.

DANGER IS NOT YET OVER

Report That Committee Be Discharged
from Duty Would Bring About a Vote.

(By William Wolf Smith.)
Washington, D. C., March 12.—Of course, we are all pleased at the action of the Senate Committee on the Philippines in refusing to report the Philippine tariff bill either favorably or adversely as it holds the bill in the committee. Under ordinary circumstances, it would kill the bill, but the circumstances are extraordinary and let us therefore, while properly congratulating ourselves on the success which has attended our efforts so far, not relax our energies for the danger is by no means passed. Congress will be in session until the first of June in any event, possibly longer;
it will sit for three months next winter, the Philippine tariff bill can be called up in the senate at any time during the life of the present congress on a motion to discharge the committee from further consideration of the bill. Of course Senator Lodge and Secretary Taft are in a disadvantageous position at the present time.
Defeated in the committee and threatened with defeat in the Senate, they will be in no hurry to force the issue but it should not be overlooked that Senator Lodge is one of the shrewdest tacticians in the senate.
He is the intimate personal friend of the President and on many matters is presumed to voice the opinion of the Chief Executive, in other words, to act as his spokesman. He has by no means despaired of ultimate success. He has had two or three conferences with the President at one of which Secretary Taft was present and although the President is by no means as strongly committed to the bill as he might be he has given it his approval and already opposition papers are heralding the action of the committee as "rebuke" to the President. This has aroused Mr. Roosevelt's fighting blood and when other matters are further advanced there is no reason to doubt that he will give this bill his support.

To a certain extent the Republican party is pledged to this legislation, especially in the House and Speaker Cannon and the House leaders are out for the bill through by such a majority that the vote is sure at the statement at the other end of the Capitol. This is true of Representative Williams, who thinks the Democrats made a great mistake in not voting for the bill in the committee as he and his friends did in the House Committee on Ways and Means. Thus the Democrats in the senate will be subject to pressure from the Democrats in the House and the Republicans in the senate
from Speaker Cannon and other Republicans in the House.

A dangerous thing is the bill introduced by Representative Bissell of Iowa, who represents the district formerly served by the late Speaker Henderson. It provides that after July 1st, 1906, all merchandise and articles going from the United States to the Philippines and all articles, wholly the growth and product of the Philippines coming into the United States, shall be admitted free of duty.
Should the senate decline to pass the Philippine tariff bill as it passed
the House or with slight amendments, it is quite within the bounds of possibility that the administration leaders in the House will take up the straight out and out free trade bill and put it through. Such a bill would almost certainly command the entire voting strength of the Democrats and would be an exceedingly difficult bill to beat. Of course, this proposition is a more or less remote contingency but Secretary Taft has frequently threatened to urge free trade if anything happened to his pet project.

After a conference with the President recently on the Philippine tariff bill Secretary Taft said:
"I have no idea what Congress may do regarding the bill. I do not attempt to dictate to or interfere with Congress, but so far as I am concerned, this fight for lower tariff rates on Philippine products is just begun.
I shall continue to do that which I believe to be right and proper to afford the Philippines the relief and assistance they need."

In opposition to the views of Secretary Taft, Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut, one of the five Republican members of the committee who voted against reporting the bill, discussed today freely and frankly his reasons for voting that way. "I was opposed to the Payne bill from its inception," said Mr. Brandegee, "mainly because it proposed to reduce the tariff on tobacco, sugar and rice, to 25 per cent of the Dingley rates, and then in a few years admit those articles from the Philippines free of all duty."

"I am convinced that it would be impossible to confine importations from the Philippines to the United States free of duty to products wholly of the Philippine Islands. It would not be a long time should we adopt this tariff policy toward these islands, before our home market would be flooded with tobacco, sugar and rice from all parts of the Orient and this would very seriously injure three of our greatest home industries."

"My constituents are too largely interested in tobacco for me to give my vote to such a proposition as that contained in the Payne bill. I doubt whether a majority vote can be secured on a motion to discharge the
committee from further consideration
of the bill in order to get it before the senate."

"But aside from the immediate question of Mr. Brandegee, there is the larger question of our general policy toward the Philippines to take into account. For my part I would greatly prefer to vote them money out of the Treasury than to open wide the door for the free importation of Oriental products which would be done by giving free trade to the Philippines in tobacco, sugar and rice.
By appropriating money out of the Treasury for their benefit or assistance the burden would be borne by the entire nation and would not fall on two or three industries. Then, too, this method would give to the people of the United States a most valuable object lesson in just what the Philippine Islands are costing us and what they will continue to cost."

The scenes preceding the termination of the light over the Philippine bill were exceedingly dramatic. The committee was scheduled to meet at 10:30 on Friday morning. It had been announced that the committee would vote on the bill and there was much speculation in the air as to the outcome. Some reports had it that the bill would be favorably reported; some said it would be beaten; still others said the fate of the bill hinged on the votes of Senators Dick and Nixon; that if one voted against the bill it would be beaten; and that in order to win out, Senators Dick and Nixon would have to be won over. They had evinced a desire all through the hearings to get at the root of the proposition and by their questions showed they did not look with favor upon the bill.

Promptly at 10:30 o'clock the heavy doors of the committee room on the ground floor of the Senate side of the capitol closed upon the assembled members, some of whom had arrived earlier. Those present were Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts; Hale, of Maine; Burrows, of Michigan; Long,
of Kansas; Nixon, of Nevada; Brandegee, of Connecticut; Culberson, of Texas; Dubois, of Idaho; Carmack, of Tennessee; McCreary, of Kentucky;
and Stone, of Missouri. About eleven o'clock Senator Beveridge hurried out of his committee room across the corridor and disappeared behind the door of the Philippine committee room where he joined in the deliberations of his colleagues. Ten minutes later, Senator Dick, almost exhausted and panting vigorously for breath, made his appearance at the door of the committee and was admitted by the trusty messenger. He had been detained at his office downtown on legal business, and was unable to get to the capitol sooner. Outside the committee room, a representative of the Gazette paced up and down the long hall awaiting the final outcome of the deliberations of the committee. Through the transom could be seen huge clouds of cigar smoke rising to the ceiling of the spacious committee room. This came promptly on the stroke of 12 o'clock. Senator Stone, of Missouri, tall and erect of stature, was the first to emerge, followed by Senator Dubois, of Idaho.
The expression on their faces was stolid and set. In a far corner of the room Senators Lodge and Hale were engaged in earnest conversation; possibly the Maine senator was telling the Massachusetts statesman
how much he disliked to vote against him but he saw it his duty to vote the way he did. As the representative of the Gazette edged his way into the committee room to ascertain the result of the meeting, he was greeted with a smile by the clerk of the committee who informed him that the committee had refused to report the bill by a vote of 8 to 5.
Upon learning this he hastened to the telegraph station nearby and in-dited a short dispatch to the Gazette to bulletin the glad tidings. In a few minutes the committee room was forsaken save the presence of the clerk and his assistant who were assidously engaged in straightening up the room. Scraps of paper were littered here and there over the floor, and reference books, memorandum pads, pens, pencils and blotters were scattered over the large table in the center of the room. After adjusting these the clerk obligingly gave the representative of the Gazette the details of the deliberations of the committee which had so dramatically sealed the fate of the bill. Thus was closed one of the most stirring scenes witnessed before a committee of congress this session.

The bill met a most crushing defeat. And Republican voters did it.
Of the eight republican members of the committee, only three supported the bill, namely, Messrs. Lodge, Beveridge and Long. The independent attitude of the other republican members, combined with the votes of the democrats, brought about the defeat of the measure. It was indeed un-usual for the democrats to vote against the bill, for, with but few exceptions, the entire democratic membership of the House voted for the bill. Senators Hale, Burrows, Dick, Nixon and Brandegee, together with Senators Culberson, Dubois and Stone, was the combination that brought about the defeat of the bill. They stood together and prevented favorable action. Not only did they refuse to report the bill favorably, but they likewise frustrated an attempt to make an adverse report, believing that the best way to get rid of this iniquitous legislation was by shelving it in the committee. Therefore, on

"Every morning for over 20 years,
I never went to the toilet without fear and trembling, and I never left it without having suffered agonizing torments. Many days I did not dare go at all, so much did I dread the terrible ordeal."

These are the exact words of a sufferer from piles and we hear the same thing almost every day. It voices the sentiments of hundreds of thousands of others in this country today, for it is estimated that of every ten persons who meet in church,
the street, or the theater, seven are affected with piles.

Martys and needless martyrs, too,
for since the discovery of the marvelous Pyramid File Cure no one need suffer one moment longer.
There is now no excuse for having piles and if you continue to suffer from them you do not deserve a particle of sympathy, considering the chance we give you to prove it to your own satisfaction wholly free of cost to you.

Here is a typical case: Mr. Benjamin Shaw, Postmaster of Bland, New Mexico. He had suffered from aggravated piles for years and was upon the eve of a serious surgical operation, believing that he had reached the limit, and that the operation offered the only possible means of relief and cure. Let us quote his own words in his letter of Oct. 31, 1905:
"I was in great agony of mind and body. In the meantime, a gentleman told me of the virtue of your pyramid remedy. I fortunately found it at a drug store and by the next morning I did not feel that an operation was necessary, and in three days I was able to return home, and a complete cure was accomplished, to my great satisfaction and the surprise of the physician."

If the interest that has already been shown in The Gazette Diamond Contest is any criterion it is safe to predict that there is going to be the liveliest kind of a campaign for the trophies before the polls are finally closed a month hence. Nearly everyone will be voting and electioneering for their favorites unless all signs fail and in fact there are at least two of our neighboring towns in which plans are being made to capture one of the prizes. The diamonds were finally mounted and placed on display in Hall & Sayles' window on Monday evening, where the attracted attention of nearly everyone passing the corner. No one has seen them who did not pronounce them well worth the winning and a number of those who stopped to admire them concluded to begin clipping the ballots without delay. The balloting of the first two voting days made eight nominations and brought in sixty-nine votes and with this showing it was decided to prepare a bulletin of the results that our readers might be kept informed of the developments of the campaign. This will be revised daily hereafter as the results may require. It should be remembered that the names of the persons to be voted for should be written in the first blank line of the ballot and the name of the organization or society of which they are members in the second blank line and these ballots may be voted every day or the votes of an entire week may be collected and voted together. There are two forms of ballots. That which is published in each issue of the Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette and the voting certificates which are issued with subscription receipts. Read the regulations over carefully and you cannot fail to vote right but by all means begin clipping the ballots and then vote them for those you think deserve to win.

REGULATIONS.
The voting in the Gazette Diamond Contest will be by ballot, clipped from regular issues of the Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette and by voting certificates issued with subscription receipts to The Gazette.
Ballots clipped from The Gazette will count one vote each for the persons named thereon when voted in conformity with these regulations within one week of date of issue.
Voting certificates will bear no time limit and may be retained and voted at any time during the contest at the will of the holder. They will be issued with subscription receipts to the Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette as provided by the following subscription table.

—FORTY YEARS AGO—
Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, March 13, 1866—Amendments to the City Charter.—Some time ago a committee of the Common Council, consisting of Messrs. Jackson, Conrad and Graham, was appointed to revise the city charter and suggest some much-needed alterations and improvements. In short the end and aim of their labors has put the organic law of the city in such shape as to serve the present needs of the corporation by amending the defects, after the expenditure of a great deal of time and labor—for which they take their pay in honor—they have completed their work, submitted it to the Council which has approved the same and it will be sent to the Legislature immediately for action. We give below the substance of some of the more important amendments. The first is one enlarging the power of the Mayor in reference to the appointment of special police. It gives that official authority to appoint as many as he shall deem necessary, to meet any specific emergency, but such appointees shall only hold their office to the meeting of the Common Council, next succeeding their appointment.

The minimum price for liquor licenses has been fixed for $50. Good.
Hitherto where any street improvement was needed it was necessary to obtain the assent of a majority of the resident property owners bordering on the proposed work. The result of all this has been that streets, many times, have been left in a shocking condition and the city has been rendered liable for accidents resulting therefrom. The amendment makes it incumbent upon the Common Council upon proper affidavit of needed repairs and improvements, to appoint a committee of one Alderman from each Ward to examine the locality indicated, and if their report is favorable to doing the work, the Council shall order the necessary repairs, and the proceedings shall be precisely the same as though the consent of the property owners had been obtained.
A change has been made in regard to the collection of delinquent poll tax. The Alderman whose duty it is to collect it, at the expiration of a specified time, return the delinquent lists to the City Treasurer, who adds it to the general tax. Heretofore the collection has been made by constable at cost of anywhere from 10 to 15 per cent. The amendment will thus effect a large saving.
It is made obligatory of the assessors to return a copy of their roll to the City Clerk as well as to the Board of Supervisors.
Provision is made for the collection of city taxes on land mortgaged to the State for money borrowed from the school fund. As the case now stands, the city comes out minus for the tax on such property, whenever there is failure on the part of the owner to pay taxes.
The provision of the Revised Statutes in reference to redemption from tax sales, is adopted.
It is made incumbent on the School Board, whenever it becomes necessary for them to make a contract, exceeding $500, to submit the same to the Common Council.
The Chief Engineer is required to make a report to the Council, in November of each year, of the condition of the engines, of the amount of hose, etc. This is to the end that the City Fathers may know precisely what protection the town has against fire during the cold weather.
Such in brief are the main amendments to the city charter, adopted by the Council. There are others which relate more particularly to the mere machinery of the city government, but which we have not thought it necessary to refer to. It should be said that they are all wise and judicious, and the committee are entitled to much credit for the able and thorough manner in which they have prosecuted this work entrusted to their care. We have no doubt the legislature will ratify their labors without hesitation.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.
Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system, when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good they can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is given internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., dealers and sole agents. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

COMING ATTRACTIONS
Legitimate drama is in vogue just now and the Henry Miller-Hartley Mauners play "Zira," which has just closed a season of two hundred nights at the Princess Theatre in New York, with the famous emotional actress, Margaret Anglin, in the title role, is the most talked of at present. This powerful play, which is from the same source of Willkie Collins' "The New Magdalen," is to be given here shortly. Messrs. Shubert and Henry Miller, who are responsible for the production, promise the original Princess Theatre company, including the "American Bernhard," Margaret Anglin. Will appear at the Myers Grand, Friday, March 23.

of both Judges Duwiddie and Sale should be kept in mind when voting for a man from another county.

Mining enthusiasts who have visited the old Joplin fields of Missouri return to say that Wisconsin mines turn out just as good galena and zinc as do the Missouri mines. So much for Wisconsin.

GOLD.

The world's gold production, which was $57,000,000 in 1850 according to the United States mint estimate, has been increased until last year's figures may fairly be taken, according to estimates of competent authorities, at $375,000,000. In fifty-five years the annual supply of the world's standard of value has multiplied seven times. In 1850 the figures of 1850 had been doubled, but in 1870 the output was less. In 1880 it was still under the figures of 1860, and even in 1890 it was only a comparatively small trifle above them.

Gold production in the Transvaal first became a factor in 1859, but it was not until 1895 that its enormous possibilities were appreciated. In that year the world's output had already increased 80 per cent; and in 1900 the figures of 1890 had more than doubled. It will be seen how remarkable the increase was in that decade of 1890-1900. The gain since 1900 is still more extraordinary, amounting to an increase of 50 per cent.

The finding of gold in Alaska was of course an important factor and it may truly be said that this country and the Transvaal have been the leaders in the rapidly increasing gold supply. There is, however, another factor not so obvious but probably altogether, at least equally important. This is the scientific treatment of the ore. Cyanide and other processes, electrical and hydraulic, have made it possible to treat a quality of ore which the miner of twenty years ago would not even have considered "pay dirt." Tailings which were regarded as worthless fifteen years ago have paid handsomely for scientific treatment, and ore is workable which would not have bought food for the miners in the days of Bendigo or Bloody Gulch. The sluicing method so largely used in New Zealand, where the sandy cliff is simply washed away at the nozzle of a huge hose, is a development of recent years. It is, of course, however, to record that the mines which in Spain were worked by the Romans two thousand years ago and offer mountains of tailings for treatment, have not so far paid the expenses of extraction. Nobody knows exactly what the Roman process was, but with all our discoveries we find it hungry work gleaning after them.

One economic effect of the great increase in the supply of gold can be seen. The purchasing power of the metal has fallen enormously. Of course the mint prices all over the world are unchanged, but the commodities gold will buy have advanced by leaps and bounds. The prices of stocks of corporations like railroads and industrial companies have advanced. Wages have increased. Labor and transportation are commodities in the true sense, as much as butter or cheese, and naturally they cost more as the purchasing price of gold declines.

There is an apparent paradox but not a real one in the serious decline in the price of gold mining shares. Apparently these should have advanced with other industrial corporations. As a matter of fact, they have declined because the article they produce, which is gold, is not worth as much as it used to be, while more scientific processes of extracting gold have naturally stimulated competition from mines which had not been considered worth working previously. This applies exclusively to gold mining, for a glance at any price list will show that the price of copper, iron, tin, silver or coal mining stocks has advanced with the railroad shares and those of the other industries. It is a suggestive inquiry whether the decreasing profits of gold mining from this cause may not in time tend to reduce the production. Nevertheless the director of the mint has predicted that the gold production will average $400,000,000 a year for twenty years.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Maine republicans have decided to hold their state convention at Portland, June 27. So far as the head of the ticket is concerned there is nothing to suggest that the nominee will be other than William T. Cobb, the present governor.

Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland has accepted the nomination as Ohio member of the democratic national committee to succeed John R. McLean of Cincinnati.

George H. Doud, who has announced his candidacy in Oklahoma for the Socialist nomination for congress, is a newspaper man and veteran Indian fighter. He was formerly a Populist in Kansas.

Charles E. Hughes begins to loom up as the next republican candidate for governor of New York. Perhaps he will have no engagements at the time that will prevent his acceptance of the high responsibility.

Captain William P. Kent, who was the republican nominee for lieutenant governor in the last Virginia election, is said to be slated for an important diplomatic post abroad.

Rufus Bullock, the only republican ever elected governor of Georgia and who played a conspicuous part in the reconstruction period, is now spending his declining days in the village of Albion, N. Y., his boyhood home. He is an almost helpless invalid, though his mind is as brilliant and clear as ever.

Democrats of New Jersey have opened their state campaign. The home of the trusts, as New Jersey has come to be called, shows every indication of falling in line with the revolt of other states against corporate domination, and the democrats are of the opinion that this spirit will help them to select their full state ticket this year.

Senator Tillman of South Carolina, whose second term expires next March, is to be a candidate to succeed himself. His increasing prominence in the senate and the prospects that he may be a big factor in the future politics of the United States, makes the question of his re-election a most interesting one. So far no candidate has been announced against him.

PRESS COMMENT.

Mizzpah!

Chicago Tribune: Zion City particularly requests Apostle Dowie not to spend quite so much money on himself hereafter. Mizpah.

Grover No Longer Young.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Grover Cleveland will be 69 years old on the 18th of this month, and W. J. Bryan will look in vain for signs of improvement.

Even the Wisest Sometimes Nod.

Exchange: It is not often that Mr. Roswell Field is to be caught napping in a quotation, but wasn't it Goldsmith, not Gray, who wrote of "the loud laugh that spoke the vacant mind?"

Correspondent's Account As Amended.

Sheboygan Journal: Pickpockets at the North Wisconsin Farmers' Association convention secured $1,000 worth of jewelry, consisting of horse-chestnuts, corn shredder washers, rings, 10-bladed jackknives and Muntgomery Ward back-action watches.

Deduced Scientifically.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Now that it has been discovered that cancer is due to sunlight, and that consumption is due to lack of it, moonlight excursions will probably become more popular than ever.

Forestalling a Political Issue.

El Paso Herald: Japan, always alert and up-to-date in watching developments, has decided to squish the freighter question before it develops by the simple expedient of the government acquiring all the railroads.

Bryan's Nose For News.

Chicago Tribune: Editor Bryan has made an interesting and valuable discovery. He finds the same stars shining overhead in China that may be seen in this country. What a nose for news that man has developed since he became an independent, aggressive journalist!

Meter "Joke" Is No Joke.

Superior Telegram: The Sentinel of Knoxville, Tenn., raises the following question about the credibility of the meter: "If you were out of town a month and hadn't used any electricity and your light bill was as big as ever, would you believe the meter?"

"A Bas the Pocket-Ballot!"

Eau Claire Telegram: Some clever people can write with both hands and wiggle their ears at the same time, but that is easy in comparison with voting the so-called "pocket ballot." It will be very easy, however, to vote against it on the Australian ballot, April 3.

Campaign in Milwaukee.

Waupaca Post: The municipal campaign in Milwaukee has reached the stump-speaking stage. It's a good bet, if you are a betting man, that the result of the primaries will be that Rose and Becker will be opposing candidates at the election. And look out for Billy Arnold, the Socialist candidate, at the election.

Boxer Troubles Mere Play.

Marquette Eagle-Star: Senatorial courtesy, which had Mr. Wilder by the coat-tails, has let go, and he will soon be on his way to the Orient. After several years of warfare in Wisconsin an uprising of the Boxers or a disturbance in the Philippines ought to be child's play for him if he is called on officially to act.

Alcohol As a "Remover."

Menasha Record: An exchange says that "alcohol will remove stains from summer clothes." The exchange is right. It will also remove the summer clothes, the spring, the autumn, and the winter clothes, not only from the one who drinks it, but from the wife and family as well. It will also remove the household furniture, the catables from the pantry, the smiles from the face of his wife, the laugh from the innocent lips of his children, the happiness out of his home. As a remover of things alcohol has no equal.

Wisconsin on Statedhood Bill.

La Crosse Leader-Press: Wisconsin should be proud of the position of her congressmen on the statedhood bill. In the house ten of the eleven members, all except Mr. Cooper, voted against the injustice of coupling Arizona and New Mexico together and forcing them to become one state against their will. In the senate Mr. Spooner took the same position. It is surprising that Senator La Follette should have voted for joint statedhood. He has little sympathy for mere partisanship, on which the joint statedhood plans for Arizona and New Mexico are based. It may be he is disposed to appear amenable to party discipline in congress on questions in which he is not deeply interested in order that he may command greater influence among his party associates when he takes positions on corporation bills which run counter to the prevailing republican opinion in the senate. His vote on the statedhood bill will do him no good at home; he is too firmly entrenched in popular favor to have it do him much harm.

Spooner For Supreme Bench.

Green Bay Gazette: The suggestion coming from Washington to the effect that Senator Spooner is to be tendered the position of justice of the United States supreme court, to be vacated this fall by Justice Brown, will be of universal interest in the state. The senator comes from a long line of judges and lawyers of eminence and he is himself a lawyer of marked ability. That he would make an able judge on the supreme bench no one will doubt who is acquainted with his high qualifications.

The fact that the dominant faction of the republican party of the state today is controlled by his old-time enemy, Senator La Follette, may tend to bring about an acceptance should the place be tendered him by the president. It is generally expected that in case the senator does not go on the bench and desires a re-election at the end of his present term, it will precipitate a hot political fight in the state as it is conceded that the junior senator will not allow him to win again without a fight on his part. In that case no one can at the present time predict the result with any degree of certainty.

The elevation of the senator to the supreme bench would, however, prove highly satisfactory to a great majority of the people of the state who hold him in high esteem.

FORTY LOCAL PEOPLE SAW GREET PLAYERS

In "Twelfth Night" Given Under the Auspices of Beloit College English Department Last Night.

Ben Greet's company of players from London presented Shakespeare's comedy "Twelfth Night" or "What You Will" at the Wilson opera-house, Beloit, last evening before a large audience which included over forty people from Janesville. The novelty of the Greet performances lies in the fact that they are presented in the simple manner of the great playwright's day: before the shifting of backdrops, gorgeously painted scenery, and spotlights became an "art." Nobody is heralded as a star in the programs. Indeed it is a difficult task to learn who the players are. The characters, listed on one page and the names of the actors in casual order on another, no curtain is raised. The stage with its background presenting a simple wall with an exit at either extremity and a sort of curtained cove in the center has no decoration save two ornamental chairs and the benches at the furthest outer corners where the two halberdiers sit throughout the performance. When a rather scrawny looking trumpeter appeared and blew a blast shortly after eight o'clock, the gallery cheered in derision. The gallery was filled with Beloit small boys who are no respecters of traditions. When the two halberdiers marched in and gravely came to attention, they cheered again.

Then the unfolding of the compact, comprehensive, closely-knit plot began and everybody, including the gallery tenants, forgot all about the seemingly absurd absence of scenery. So much so that when the alcove curtain was drawn back on one occasion, disclosing a forest consisting of two orange trees in pots, in which the roly-poly drum drum rhyester, Sir Toby Belch, the vagrant, dissipated Sir Andrew Aguecheek, and others were biding to watch the outcome of a little joke on Malvolio, the vain and arrogant steward, everybody took "the woods" for granted quite as easily as did the players. Ben Greet gave a remarkable delineation of the role of Malvolio and the superb acting when he presented himself smirking in his cross-laced yellow hose, before his mistress, Olivia, will not soon be forgotten. Constance Crawley, who formerly played Viola, is no longer with the company but the part is admirably taken by her successor. There was one intermission of a few moments during which two youths in blue gowns came out and religiously swept the stage with two willow brooms.

Among those from Janesville who attended the performance were: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Matheson, Supt. H. C. Muell, Judge and Mrs. C. L. Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. James Fifield, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Capelle, Mrs. J. F. Pember, Mrs. Tarrant, Mrs. Frank Echlin, Mrs. E. D. GERMAN PAPER LIKES ARCHBISHOP'S PRAISE

Archbishop's statement made in Janesville by High Catholic Prelate.

The statement of Archbishop Messmer made in this city a week ago Sunday evening, when he praised the Lutherans for their example in maintaining their schools, is attracting a good deal of attention all over the country. The Illinois Staatszeitung, speaking of the matter, says:

"Archbishop Messmer is filled with that spirit which manifested itself some years ago among the German Catholics, German Lutherans and other German Protestants of Illinois and Wisconsin, when they fought together against the Bennett law and the Edwards law, by which the German-American parents and church schools of both states were endangered. A great many who are removed from the church aided in the great victory of that time. They very properly held that the German-American church schools are an indispensable aid to the maintenance of German in the United States."

EXPLOSION IS FELT FOR MILES

Blast From Eight Tons of Dynamite Acts Like Earthquake.

Duluth, Minn., March 13.—In an explosion of eight tons of dynamite at the works of the Great Northern Power company at Thomson, Minn., seven men were injured and several scores of workmen had miraculous escapes from instant death. A powder house, roundhouse and steam shovel were reduced to kindling wood and masses of twisted iron. At the time of the explosion there were between 200 and 300 men within 1,000 feet. For a radius of forty-five miles in almost every direction from Duluth the concussion could be distinctly felt. In Duluth every house in the city shook and in a number of instances dishes and bric-a-brac rattled as though an earthquake had occurred.

CHANGING SENTIMENT.

Oliver Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" spoke of a certain chapel where those who "went to scoff, repented to pray." So in life one often laughs at what he does not understand and later, when he does understand, his laugh turns to praise.

There were some who doubted the merits of Newbro's "Herpicide," the scalp germicide and hair-dressing; but since they have tried it, they are now among its best friends and strongest endorsers. "Herpicide" kills the germ that eats the hair off at the root and the hair then grows again. As a hair dressing it is incomparable, try it. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CHAPTER VI.

BARNETT was at breakfast when a telegram was laid at his elbow by the maid. He opened it leisurely, thinking it some matter of business, but his hands stiffened as he read:

Bob Raymond is shot. Send him doctor in town quick. WATSON.

For just a moment he sat in silence, then rose and walked slowly to his library. Seating himself before the little desk on which stood a movable telephone receiver, he began to "make things hum." He reached his friend, Dr. Braide, and set him in motion. He ordered out his racing automobile. He telegraphed Watson to take fresh horses and return by way of Junction and get the best doctor there. "Burn the air as you go," he added.

After giving orders for his valise to be packed he walked up to Mrs. Barnett's room and kissed her good morning without betraying his excitement. "I'm going out to the ranch," he said. "The boys are having trouble with the hay, and I want to see how they're coming on. You won't mind, will you?"

"Of course not, Don. I'm going to be all right in a few hours. I'm glad you're going. You can bring Ann home. You should have gone with her yesterday."

"I see that now," he answered dryly. "It will be a startling world for her. Well, I'm off. Better stay in bed today. I'll be back by tomorrow night, I think."

When he took his seat in his big, fat, powerful auto-car his face was set in grim lines. "Is she all right, Henry?" he asked of his engineer.

"In perfect order, sir."

"She needs to be. This is to be a record breaker."

With his big goggles over his eyes and his cap drawn low down on his forehead, Barnett seized the wheel, and the ponderous, panting organism began to move. Whirling into the street, he let on the full power of the engine, and when he drew up at Braide's gate the mechanism was hot with speed, its joints oiled and frictionless—in racing trim.

Braide, a small, smiling, trim young fellow, came out. "What is it all about, Don?"

"Got your tools?"

He pointed at his bag. "Emergency kit."

"Then all aboard!"

Henry leaped out and caught up the bag, while the doctor climbed in beside Barnett on the front seat.

"This looks ominous. How much of a trip is it going to be?"

"Just a short run," answered Barnett as he swung the shining red bulk of the car into Mogulway avenue, which led directly east over the plain.

Beneath their feet the puff and click of the piston and the purr of cogs grew each moment more furious until all sounds fused into a humming roar. The keen air of the morning smote the riders joyfully. The flaming sunlight slanted upon them with growing heat, and backward, beneath them, the sod swept like a tawny carpet, while Barnett, watchful, intent, composed, worked the levers and valves with the skill of a practical engineer. When they had crossed the two railroads and were climbing the long, low ridge he casually remarked:

"My foreman, Raymond, is shot, and you've got to pull him through."

"Great Scott, Don, I can't afford the time! It'll take all day. If I'd known—"

"You'd have gone just the same," asserted Barnett calmly. The machine was again running swiftly. "You're here, and you don't jump out, and you might as well enjoy yourself. This is to be a record run. I'm going to pull in by noon."

Braide was young and a man of red blood and shining eyes. "Very well; go it, old sport! I can stand it if you can. I'll make it a holiday and charge you double for every hour."

When they had reached the top of the pass between two plain spotted hills the road could be seen for miles, driving straight into the mist of the mighty Missouri valley.

"It's all the way down grade from here to Omaha," resumed Barnett. "I could make the run in two hours, only I mustn't invite a breakdown."

"You seem to value your foreman."

"He's something more than my foreman. He's a splendid chap. You've met him—the fellow who went on the 'cotype drive' with us."

"Why, certainly I remember him. I've met him at the club. But he was very reticent. I didn't get at him. Who is he?"

"How does he come to be your foreman?"

"He's a little slow about telling his own life story, but he's all right. I think I know the cause of this shooting. He got into trouble with a couple of fellows out there, and one of them has done him."

"As they entered upon a particularly smooth stretch of road the man at the wheel relaxed his hold and said, with deep feeling, 'I don't mind saying that I'm anxious about Rob.'"

"What do you suppose they will do to him?" asked Louis.

Ann turned sick. "Oh, I don't know. Don't speak of it! It's too horrible!"

When they re-entered the cabin Barnett met them with a smile. "The doctor says Rob's all right. He insists that Ann saved his life. He poor girl! What a night that boy let you in for! I didn't know till ten minutes ago that you were here all alone and that Jones and his wife had vamoosed. I hope you'll forgive me, Ann."

"Oh, I blame no one but myself," she wearily replied. "I shouldn't have come to this miserable, ghastly region."

"Rob wants to see you. Will you come in and speak to him?"

Ann reluctantly followed Barnett in to the inner room where Raymond, with his wounds dressed and limbs properly clothed, lay stretched on the bed. He was very pale, but his eyes were calm and quiet. He reached a feeble right hand toward her, saying painfully, "You've been mighty good to me. By and by I will try to thank you. Without you I wouldn't have lived to death."

"I beg you not to give it a moment's thought. I did very little," Ann coldly replied.

His eyes were round and soft and appealing, like those of a big wounded dog. "Don't leave me now. I want you."

"She glanced at the young doctor, who stood listening. He nodded as if to say, 'Grant his request.' And so she put his hand away gently as if the clinging fingers were those of a sleeping babe and said, with a return of pity, 'I will stay till tomorrow. Now please go to sleep!'"

him. "Now, if he dies"—He broke off and bent to his wheel to hide the emotion that made his lips quiver.

It lacked ten minutes of noon as Barnett rose above the last great wave of the tawny sea and sighted the clump of cottonwoods in which his ranch buildings sat, and two minutes later he swept into the yard and up to the door amid a throng of singularly silent cowboys and ranchers. The first one to speak was Mrs. Scribbins, who exclaimed:

"Jerusalem the golden! You hain't come from home this mornin' in that doggone thunder cart, have ye?"

"That's what. How's Rob?"

"Quiet as mice; but I hope ye brought help."

Barnett rose from his seat stiffly and climbed painfully down, while Braide seized his case of tools and hurried into the cabin.

"Barnett, feeling a small hand slipping his arm, turned to meet Louis. 'Hello,' said he. 'How is Ann?'"

"She's all right," she saved Bob's life," answered the boy.

Ann who stood just outside the door, answered very quietly, "I am quite well. How is Jeannette?"

"She's all right," he answered.

"How is Jeannette?"

"She's all right," he answered.

He closed his eyes under her palm, and tears of gratitude came stealing down from his brown lashes. For the moment she forgot that she had known him but a day; that she, too, was a stranger—far removed from him in every thought and purpose—and consented to stay because he clung to her and needed her. A hand seized her throat, and an emotion which alienated her from her old self rose within her bosom and for a moment frightened her. In the end it irritated her, this pity, and yet it could not be shaken off. A deeper self which she had not known insisted that she keep her word to the wounded man, and so for two days she oscillated between a pitying tenderness for him and a disgust and bitterness with herself and her weakness.

On the third day Braide pronounced his patient out of danger, and then Ann's pity died.

"I am going home," she said to Louis, "and you must go with me. They are going to take the foreman to the Springs, and I cannot leave you here."

Ann said goodby to the wounded man in Barnett's presence, and a sense of irritation caused her to be very distant with him.

"I hope you will soon be able to be removed," she said, evading his glance. "This is a distressing place in which to be sick, and now I must say good-by."

He took her hand in both of his. "I shall miss you, but I won't ask you to stay any longer. You've been very sweet and helpful to me, and I hate to have you go. You will let me see you again, won't you?"

"My cousin intends to take you to his house as soon as you can be moved," she answered formally. "No doubt we shall meet again there."

"I will live in hope of that," he answered gallantly.

TARIFF BILL NOT DEAD

a motion by Senator McCreary, of Kentucky, to report it adversely to the senate, they handed together and defeated the move by a vote of 7 to 3. Senator Nixon's being the added vote in favor of the proposition.

The attitude of Senator Hale, of Maine, had much to do in defeating the bill. This distinguished senator has all along opposed the retention of the Philippines by this government. He regretted the war with Spain and fought it bitterly in the senate at the time. He does not approve of the government spending its money in the Philippines and believes we would be better off and the Filipinos also if we were to let them go. On these grounds he opposed the bill tooth and nail and during the course of the hearings questioned Secretary Taft at great length. In voting against the bill Senator Burrows followed the wishes of his Michigan beet sugar constituents. Messrs. Brandegee, of Connecticut, and Dick of Ohio, have extensive tobacco interests in their respective states, and voiced the sentiments of their constituents in casting their votes against the bill. Senator Brandegee's vote in opposition to the bill is in sharp contrast with the attitude of Mr. Hill, who comes from the same state and who voted for it in the House. Mr. Nixon, of Nevada, a new member, did not know which way to vote, desiring to be on good terms with the administration and at the same time please his beet sugar constituents. From his vote in opposition it can be seen he placed his duty to his constituents above that of fostering political ambitions. The democratic members of the committee did not look at the question from the same viewpoint as did their brethren in the House, who supported the bill on the theory that it was a step in the direction of free trade. They opposed the bill because they believed it would benefit the sugar and tobacco trusts of this country, as was the case with the Cuban reciprocity treaty. Senator Dubois organized the forces of opposition to the Payne bill in the committee. Mr. Dubois' section of the country is very largely interested in beet sugar and this was the main consideration that influenced his course. Messrs. Culberson and Stone, who voted with Mr. Dubois against the bill, are democrats of the old school, who stand on the doctrine concerning the Philippines so often declared by the national platform of their party. Of those republicans who voted for the bill it may be said of Senators Lodge, Beveridge and Long that they have no interests in their states that would be affected by the bill and being in sympathy with Secretary Taft, they favored his project. Senator Carmack, one of the democrats who voted for the bill, is much opposed to the government's policy in the Philippines, but supported the bill on the ground that it tends toward free trade. Senator McCreary, of Kentucky, did not think the bill would hurt the industries of the United States, and being anxious to help the Filipinos, voted for the bill.

After the committee had refused to report the bill either favorably or adversely, Senator Lodge urged the committee not to leave the bill in so unsatisfactory a parliamentary position, pointing out that the senate ought to have an opportunity to consider it. But his fellow-committeemen were unmoved and stood by their action in killing the bill.

Secretary Taft, for over a week appeared before the committee and expounded his vocabulary in arguments in favor of the bill. He pleaded with the committee to grant this relief to the Filipinos, but his pleas evidently fell on deaf ears. He sent his emissary, Col. Edwards, the chief of the bureau of insular affairs of the war department, to the capitol on last Friday morning to get the result of the deliberations of the senate committee on the Philippines. First-hand. When he arrived he found that the newspaper men assembled were holding an inquest over the dead body of the Payne-Taft Philippine tariff bill and instead of tripping gaily back to his abode in the war department, the general colonel wended his way back in sorrow and told the sad tale to the round secretary of war.

The Signs of Heart Trouble

You can Surely Secure Heart Health and Strength through Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Heart weakness which can be dealt with as all is nerve weakness. Just as your hand trembles when its nerves are weak, when your heart nerves are weak your heart flutters and palpitates. Other signs are shortness of breath, faintness, dizziness, spells, pain or tenderness about the heart caused by irregular heart action, choking sensations as if the heart was in the throat, uneasy sensation in the chest, showing that working heart is usually the left side, but frequently the right, and a difficult breathing. There is only one way to treat it. Bring back the heart to its normal and vigorous action. Can you imagine how any other thing can be done? Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring back the heart to its normal and vigorous action. It is a remedy to stimulate, nothing leads to reaction. The strength that gives is natural and permanent. It is the same strength as Nature gives to those who are well. Dr. Shoop's Restorative creates strength which overcomes the whole inside nerve system, and overcomes the cause of the trouble as well as the result. For sale and recommended by PEOPLE'S DRUG CO. ## UNIVERSITY HAS GOOD ATHLETES

PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT RANKS
WELL WITH THE EAST.

STATISTICS ARE GIVEN

Careful Training of the Young Men
at the University in Athletics.

While in making up the all-American university athletic teams each year there is always considerable discussion as to the relative merits of eastern and western college athletes and athletes, the relative strength and physical development of the average student in the two sections of the country is seldom, if ever, considered. The college athlete, who, by his extraordinary physical development, is able to establish new athletic records in track and field events or to score touchdowns on the gridiron, is regarded as the typical representative of the results of physical training in our colleges and universities, both in the east and west. Despite the importance which intercollegiate athletics have been given, the gymnastics for the training of the thousands of students who never appear in public competitions, like so much of the class work of our universities, never comes to public attention. Some interesting statistics have been compiled by Dr. J. C. Elsom, director of gymnastics at the University of Wisconsin, showing that, although experts may award first place to eastern university athletic teams, the average western college student, or rather the average student of the University of Wisconsin, exceeds his eastern brother in all-around physical development.

Western College Man Leads

Whether it be that the material from which the student body is drawn is superior in quality, or that the opportunities and methods of physical training are better, it is a fact that the average student of the University of Wisconsin shows a marked superiority of physical development over men in eastern colleges and universities. A statistical comparison of measurements of the freshmen and sophomores in Wisconsin, Yale, Cornell and Amherst shows that the Wisconsin men of these classes, although younger, in the average, surpass the others in weight, height, the girth of the head, neck, biceps, breadth of shoulders, legs, strength of grip, and in lung capacity in all cases except in that of the Cornell student, whose lung capacity is unusually high.

Physical Training Required of All.
The regulations of the department of physical culture at the University of Wisconsin require each man in the freshmen and sophomore classes to undergo a physical examination and take two years' training, in order that his general health may be ascertained, his weak points discovered and appropriate corrective exercises prescribed. A careful record is made of fifty different measurements of each student, and compared with similar measurements made at the end of the two years' training. These include also records of the condition of the student's heart, lungs, skin, spine and muscles. The comparative statistics show with accuracy the improvement in physique and strength which the student has made as a result of the physical training.

Average Wisconsin Man Younger.
As to age, the Wisconsin man averages only 20.1 years, while the average Yale man is 20.3 and the Amherst man 20.8 years. Yale and Wisconsin men are very nearly of a weight, the Wisconsin average being 139.5 pounds and the Yale man being 139 pounds; Amherst and Cornell both average 135 pounds. The average Wisconsin man is 68 inches tall (5 feet 10 inches), while the Cornell and Amherst men are 67.9 inches, and the Yale man is 67.3 inches. Wisconsin men have larger head girth, also, the average measurement being 22.6 inches, compared to Amherst's 22.5 and the Yale and Cornell measurement of 22.4 inches.

In the matter of lung capacity Wisconsin is excelled only by Cornell, which has the unusually high measurement average of 258 cubic inches. The Wisconsin measurement is 247 cubic inches, compared to Yale's 244 and Amherst's 230 cubic inches. Compared to the normal measurement of the chest, this shows a greater lung expansion on the part of Wisconsin students than on that of any but Cornell men, as the Wisconsin chest normal is but 34.5 inches, compared to Yale measure of 34.4, Amherst's 34.6, Cornell's 34.8.

The girth of the average Wisconsin student's waist is larger than that of students of the other universities, being 28.8 inches, compared to that of Yale and Cornell, which is 28.6, and Amherst, which is 28.5. The same proportion is shown in hip girth, Wisconsin leading with 35.6 inches to Cornell's 35.2, Amherst's 35.1, and Yale's even 35 inches.

Wisconsin and Cornell are exactly even in their measurements for breadth of shoulders, both being 17.1 inches across. Amherst is 16.9 inches across, and Yale is lowest, with 16.1 inches across. Wisconsin men can claim superiority in the girth of their right biceps, which measure 11.3 inches to Cornell's 11.7 and Yale and Amherst's 11.6 inches. Amherst has a tenth of an inch larger right forearm, the measurement being 10.5 inches to Wisconsin's 10.4; Yale has the same as Wisconsin; and Cornell is the last with 10.1 inches.

The measurement of the average Wisconsin man's right thigh is 20.7 inches, which compares well with Amherst's 20.5, Yale's 20.3, and Cornell's 20.2. In the measurements of the right calf Wisconsin shows 13.3 inches, next highest to Cornell, which has 13.9 inches. Both Yale and Amherst have 13.7 inches girth.

Wisconsin Man Stronger.

Comparison of the strength of the right and left forearms of the average men of the three universities shows Wisconsin to have a larger superiority than in any other of the measurements. The right forearm strength is 125 pounds, compared to Yale's 119 and Amherst's 85, and comparing left forearms, Wisconsin has a record of 120 pounds to Yale's 103.5 and Amherst's 81.5.

Where Wisconsin Men Come From.

In view of these high averages in the physical measurement of Wisconsin students, it is interesting to note the source from which this splendid material is drawn. Of 200 men examined 138 were from different parts of Wisconsin, 15 were from Illinois, 5 each from Michigan, New York, and the Philippine Islands, 4 each from South Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa, 2 from Nebraska, and 1 each from England, Cuba, Holland, Japan, Georgia, Florida, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts and Kansas.

Farmers' Sons in Majority.

The men were questioned as to their personal habits and health and as to their parentage. It was found that they averaged eight hours sleep, that ninety-eight (less than half) use coffee, and sixty-three (less than a third) use tea; forty-two have nasal catarrh, sixty-eight only received previous training in physical exercise. More of them were sons of farmers than of men of any other calling. The occupations of the fathers were as follows: Farmers, 24; merchants, 23; physicians, 9; railroad employees and manufacturers, 7 each; real estate dealers and engineers, 6 each; lawyers, 5; lumber men, traveling men, insurance agents and machinists, 4 each; ministers, butchers and miners, 3 each; grocers, druggists, contractors, printers and carpenters each 2; one each of millers, brokers, tailors, bankers, stock buyers, ranchers, justices of the peace, laborers, painters, oil inspectors, gardeners, teachers of physical culture, surveyors, saddlers, brewers, blacksmiths, millwrights, stone masons and grain dealers.

Thousands in Gymnasium Classes.

There are now 1,000 men taking work in the gymnasium twice a week, which is equivalent to 2,000 men in training each week. This does not include the 1,000 men who are taking voluntary exercise in connection with some of the various athletic teams and as a continuation of the university, or as a continuation of the work done in the first two years. These figures give sufficient explanation of the crowded conditions and general inadequacy of the Armory, which, as the largest university gymnasium in the country when built twelve years ago, was thought to be sufficient for the needs of Wisconsin for all time. At that time, however, there were but 200 freshmen and 100 sophomores taking training.

CHICAGO VICTORIOUS IN TRACTION CONTEST

Act Extending Lives of Companies Is Valid, but Franchises Expire at Stated Periods.

Chicago, March 13.—The people of Chicago have won a most sweeping traction victory.

The supreme court of the United States, in a decision handed down Monday morning, holds that the act of the state of Illinois extending the lives of the street car companies to ninety-nine years is constitutional, but that it does not operate to extend the respective contracts for occupation of the streets, which contracts had been expressly limited in time by the ordinances permitting the corporations to occupy public highways.

The ninety-nine year act, therefore, though valid, is valueless.

The municipality is master of the situation. "The net result of the court's decision," said Glenn E. Plumb, special counsel for the city, "is that the municipality can take over 500 miles of track at any time henceforth, and that the traction companies have about 200 miles on which the franchises expire in the period from 1911 to 1915. But these lines on which the companies still have franchises are in outlying districts. On these there will have to be 6-cent fares and acceptance of transfers, and, as the rolling stock is run down, it would be a losing game for the corporations to operate their stub-ends of lines in the suburbs."

OPERATORS LOOKING FOR FIGHT

John Mitchell Is of Opinion That Employers Desire Trouble.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 13.—John Mitchell, president of the United Mineworkers of America, returned to Indianapolis Monday to preside at the national convention of miners, which will meet Thursday morning. When asked concerning the refusal of the anthracite operators to grant the demand of the miners, he said it looked very much as though the operators were "looking for a strike." When asked what would be the attitude of the miners regarding the anthracite situation he replied: "I can only speak for one person. The thirty-six anthracite committeemen will come to Indianapolis and not until we have had our conference can any statement be made for publication." Mr. Mitchell expressed the hope that the bituminous situation would be clarified by the coming convention and conference. The national executive board of the miners will meet here Wednesday. He would not affirm that President Roosevelt had taken any steps to bring about a settlement.

STATE NOTES

Wenowoc farmers have organized the Farmers' Cooperative Dairy company with a capital stock of $3,500.

George Kilen, aged 36, a farmer of Caledonia, Racine county, was struck by a train and instantly killed.

The Kenosha Knights of Columbus Building association was incorporated with a capital stock of $25,000, and it will build a temple for the use of the order in Kenosha.

Henry La Fayette, an engineer employed at the O. C. Steenberg company's sash, door and blind factory at Fond du Lac, was scalded to death by the bursting of the exhaust pipe on the boiler.

The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company is negotiating for the purchase of a large tract of land in Racine upon which to erect power houses. The consideration is said to be $14,000.

MORE DEATHS FOLLOW ATTEMPTS TO RESCUE

Seventeen Lives Are Sacrificed in Effort to Bring Bodies from Mines at Courrières Pits.

Paris, March 13.—Fearing another explosion similar to the one on Saturday which resulted in the loss of over a thousand lives, engineers Monday hurriedly ordered up all relief gangs at the Courrières pits and the vast mines are entirely deserted.

Despite the warning given by the engineers, more lives were lost Monday. A party said to consist of seventeen men who went into the mine for the purpose of recovering the bodies of those who perished on Saturday lost their lives in the undertaking. They had descended in spite of the recognized danger of the attempt and in the face of the engineers' warnings against making a further effort.

The engineers Monday afternoon hermetically closed pits 3, 4 and 11 and fixed a powerful ventilator at the mouth of pit 2 with which to force in a current of air. Later an exhaust pump will be utilized to draw out the noxious gases and vitiated air.

Late in the day, after several hours of ventilation of Pit No. 2, the Westphalian rescuers were authorized to descend. They succeeded in penetrating a long distance and recovered 200 bodies, which they brought up.

Henri Rothschild visited the scene of the disaster and gave $4,000 toward the relief of the families of the victims.

The mine company's latest estimate places the number of victims at 1,000. A serious disorder was threatened Monday owing to the persistence of parents who wanted to see the bodies of the dead in hope of identifying them. The authorities promised to admit groups of twenty-five, but the delay made the parents impatient and they rushed at the doors.

A scene of great confusion followed, but mounted gendarmes eventually forced back the crowds and order was restored with difficulty. When the parents obtained admission a sorrowful spectacle was presented. A number of identifications were made and the bodies were taken home. The houses of the dead are marked with rough black crosses.

FAVORS THIRD TERM.

General Grosvenor Says People Want Roosevelt Kept in Office.

Washington, March 13.—A third term for President Roosevelt seems to Representative Grosvenor of Ohio to be the logical outcome of the sentiment of the country in support of the ideas advanced by the chief magistrate. After a talk with the president Monday General Grosvenor said as he was leaving the White House: "I am just back from Ohio, where the legislature is passing some radical legislation by a practically unanimous vote. Our legislature shows the trend of public sentiment and is following the lead of the president. The people reserve the right to elect a man for the third presidential term if they want to do so. In my opinion there is no real sentiment against a third term."

Washington, who was popularly supposed to have declared against the third term idea, did nothing of the sort, and I challenge anyone to produce any writing of his to sustain the contention. The president's policies are popular, he has the support of the people, has awakened legislators to action and he appears to be the logical candidate. Certainly there is no precedent to preclude him."

Campaign Publicity.

Washington, March 13.—Perry Belmont of New York, president of the national publicity bill organization, addressed the house committee on election of president, vice president and representatives in congress Monday on the purification of political campaigns by preventing secret contributions. Representatives Cochran of New York and McCall of Massachusetts also addressed the committee on the general subject of publicity as set forth in a bill introduced by Mr. McCall and supported by the organization of which Mr. Belmont is president. Mr. Belmont said Mr. Griggs, who has just been elected chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, is willing to publish all contributions he may receive in the approaching campaign. It was urged by Mr. Belmont that the bill is in no sense partisan and has the support of men prominent in all existing party organizations.

Fraud Order for Preacher.

Washington, March 13.—A fraud order has been issued by the postoffice department against Rev. Joseph Spencer of Chicago, who has been advertising that a widow with a fortune of $50,000 in cash wished to marry. The advertisement stated that he hoped to see her happily married, and that upon the payment of $10 he would enter into correspondence with some worthy bachelor who wanted a wife. The name of the alleged widow was given as Mrs. Edna Wilson. Applicants upon payment of the $10, were informed that upon the further payment of $30 they would be introduced. A large number of letters passed through the Chicago office addressed to Rev. Mr. Spencer, but a number now held there will not be delivered.

Piano Factory Is Burned.

Boston, Pa., March 13.—The piano and organ factory of H. Lehr & Co. was destroyed by fire. The blaze started from an explosion in the engine room. The loss will reach $75,000.

STRENGTHENS SHERMAN LAW

Immunity Pleas of Officers of Tobacco and Paper Trusts Are Set Aside—Witnesses Must Answer or Be in Contempt.

Washington, March 13.—The trusts have lost two important points in their fight against prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law. Two decisions handed down Monday by the United States Supreme court, which will have wide effect in future litigation, were against the trusts. One decision established the principle that witnesses in suits must answer questions and produce books and papers of the corporations with which they are connected. The other was in effect that witnesses appearing before grand juries, in proceedings under the anti-trust law, also must answer questions. The former case was that of the proceedings against the paper trust, brought by the government in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The latter was that against the tobacco trust, brought in the southern district of New York state.

Regarding Immunity.

One of the important points in the tobacco case decision was the establishment of a distinction between a corporation and an individual when incriminating evidence is concerned. The court held that while individuals may obtain immunity under the law which protects witnesses in anti-trust cases, corporations are not individuals, and the law would not serve for their officers as agents of them.

In the tobacco trust case officers of the American Tobacco company when called before the grand jury refused to answer questions or to produce their books. They were committed for contempt of court and sought to escape by means of writs of habeas corpus. The writs were refused and the case was brought to the Supreme court by the defendants. In their hearing they attacked the jurisdiction of the grand jury, contending that there was no action against the tobacco company at the time they were before the jury, questioned the right of the jury to compel them to answer questions and attacked the constitutionality of the act granting immunity to witnesses in anti-trust cases.

Books Must Be Produced.

Justice Brown, who delivered the opinion, held that the grand jury has the right to act upon information obtained by it without a formal indictment. The justice held that if the immunity statute protected officers of corporations it virtually would nullify the Sherman law. In reference to the refusal of the witnesses to produce the books of the corporation, the justice held again that there is a clear distinction between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books.
